Not illustrated. 1909 Excerpt: . . . in a bucketful of water, and enough lime and clay added to make a thin paste. A wash of this description, if applied about July 15th, would act as a deterrent and poison. To be most thoroughly effective it should be applied to the trunk and main limbs and be replaced when loosened by rain. Prof. Starnes reports that he can not recommend any one wash in view of his experience with many different formulas. For applying to trees just after fall worming he recommends the following: Lime and Potash Wash: A simple mixture of thick whitewash and ball potash--11. pounds lime, 2V4 ounces caustic potash to the gallon of water. It is quite probable that the lime-sulphur mixtures recommend for San Jose scale treatment may be used with good success. They certainly possess the caustic property necessary to kill young borer larvae and by adding a little more lime than the scale formula calls for, it would cover tree trunks sufficiently to act as a deterrent to both the adult moths and the larvae. Summarizing the remarks regarding borer washes none are worthy of unrestricted recommendation. The best time to apply any wash is just after the fall worming. If washes are applied earlier and before the trees are wormed they should be sufficiently thick and caustic to repel larva1 which attempt to enter the trunks of the trees. (5) Spring Worming: In view of the information now at hand regarding the life history of...
